

Debt Ceiling Limit

Our Congress is in debate on whether to raise the national debt ceiling. It is currently just over $14,000,000,000,000.00, which is about the same as the total amount of goods and services produced in the United States of America in one year. Based upon what you know right now, should the debt ceiling be increased? If you think it should be increased, what kind of controls would you like attached if any? If you say a flat NO, you are finished. If you choose Yes, please go on to the next question. If none of the responses in question 2 look acceptable to you, select Other and add your choice in Remarks at the end. Everyone is urged to enter a short comment for their representative in the Remarks at the end.

* Required

Should the debt ceiling be increased? *

Should it be increased with or with out further controls?

- Yes
- No
- Undecided

What restrictions or riders should be attached to an increase in the debt ceiling?

If we do authorize an increase, should we required further controls?

- None
- Balanced Budget Amendment
- Limit spending to a % of GDP
- Cut spending 5% now.
- Other in remarks

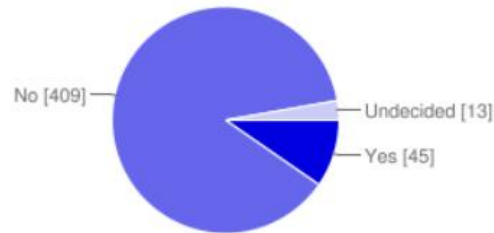

Remarks

Any comment to explain your vote or to expound on your selection of Other above.

467 responses

Summary See complete responses

Should the debt ceiling be increased?

Yes	45	10%
No	409	88%
Undecided	13	3%

What restrictions or riders should be attached to an increase in the debt ceiling?

None	15	3%
Balanced Budget Amendment	155	33%
Limit spending to a % of GDP	65	14%
Cut spending 5% now.	42	9%
Other in remarks	63	13%